

NWRI Clarke Prize Conference

October 20, 2017 ❖ Irvine, California

Student Volunteer Application

Interested in volunteering at the 2017 NWRI Clarke Prize Conference? The conference organizers are seeking student volunteers to assist us at the conference. Volunteer positions may include serving as a room monitor, working at the registration desk, and providing general support throughout the event. We will work with your schedule so that you can attend the presentations you are most interested in. In exchange, your student registration fee for the conference will be waived. We will also seat you at lunch with a Clarke Laureate so you can engage one-on-one with a leading researcher in the water industry.

Requirements

- Commit to volunteering all day (7:00 am to 5:00 pm).
- Business attire (no shorts or jeans, please).
- Must currently be enrolled as a full-time graduate or undergraduate student.

Possible Tasks for the Conference

- Set-up and tear-down the registration desk.
- Distribute name badges and conference material to attendees as they arrive.
- Pass around a microphone to audience members to use during presentation Q&A.
- Assist the session moderator with any requests (for instance, computer or room issues).
- Serve as liaison between conference staff members and attendees.
- Make photocopies (if needed).
- Assist with the reception set-up (i.e., decorations, banners, etc.).
- Tend the registration desk while distributing table assignments.
- Distribute handouts (if needed).
- Assist with any issues as they arise.
- Answer general questions.

Terms and Conditions

- Students must make their own travel arrangements (hotel, transportation, etc.) to attend the conference.
- The conference organizers reserve the right to terminate service as a volunteer at any time.
- There are a limited number of volunteer spots; therefore, not all applicants will be accepted.

More information about the Clarke Prize is available at www.clarkeprize.com.
